Psychological Services Contract

Thank you for inquiring about psychological services. As a new client considering psychotherapy for yourself, family, or your child, you have the right to know something about my background and qualifications, and to know what to expect from our work together. Please read this document carefully so that you can make an informed decision about using my services. This document contains important information about my professional services and business policies. After reviewing this document, ask any questions you might have. When you sign this document, it will represent a binding agreement between us and authorize me to provide psychological services, including evaluations, therapy, and assessments.

Parties to the Professional Relationship: The therapists in this office share only the physical facilities of this office. Each of our practices is separate and independent from one another. Therefore, your professional relationship is entirely between yourself and Azmaira H. Maker, Ph.D., a licensed psychologist practicing independently.

Qualifications: I am a Clinical Psychologist with a license to practice in the State of California (PSY 21570). I received my bachelor's degree in Psychology from Vassar College and my master's and doctoral (1996) degrees in Clinical Psychology from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. I completed two years of post-doctoral fellowship at the University of Michigan Hospital in the Dept. of Psychiatry. Since completing my training, I have worked in a variety of capacities, including academic teaching, supervising and training other therapists, research and publishing, consulting for schools and private agencies, and practicing in mental health agencies and private practice.

Psychological Services: My orientation to the practice of psychotherapy is multifold. I use primarily play therapy and parent guidance with young children, family systems therapy with families, and psychodynamic therapy with adolescents and adults. Group therapy may vary, depending on the structure and focus of the group. I view therapy as a collaboration between the client/s and the therapist, and the development of a meaningful relationship between therapist and client/s as an essential aspect of therapy. I encourage you to share your honest reactions to our work together and to me, and anticipate that there will be a mutual evaluation of how the therapy is progressing over time. Psychotherapy requires a very active effort on your part. Although I will offer some feedback regarding the possible time frame of therapy once we have completed an evaluation, we will know more about the length of time our work requires as the therapy unfolds. It is my practice to make treatment recommendations based upon the types of problems presented and what I feel are the most helpful ways to approach these problems; I do not allow insurance or other structural constraints to dictate my treatment recommendations.

Psychological Evaluation: A psychological evaluation is an initial understanding of the symptoms, diagnoses, and psychological, emotional, social, and cognitive functioning of the individual, child, adolescent, couple, and/or family system. A clinical evaluation may have as its goals, to identify the current significant stressors and diagnoses, to provide specific recommendations based on the evaluation, and to establish the treatment goals and timeline for therapeutic services. As part of the evaluation, I will meet with the individual, the child, the adolescent, the couple, and/or the family in various configurations. The evaluation process could take up to 5 sessions before specific and appropriate recommendations are made. I usually meet for sessions that are 45 minutes long each. If the need arises, sessions may be longer, and the appropriateness of longer sessions and any change in cost will be discussed with you prior to any changes.

Psychological Assessment: A psychological assessment is a service designed to produce an understanding of an individual's intellectual, academic, developmental, emotional, personality, and behavioral functioning, and to identify areas of strength and weakness, utilizing specific assessment tests. Psychological assessments may have, as their goals, to diagnose learning, developmental, emotional, mood, behavioral, attention, and personality problems. They may also assess emotional factors that may be contributing to, or the result of, these problems. Each individual assessment is designed to answer specific diagnostic questions, and, as such, may include an intellectual/cognitive, academic, and/or social/emotional assessment. As part of an assessment, I will conduct a diagnostic assessment in which I will meet with you, or in the case of a child/adolescent, at least one parent or guardian in addition to the child/adolescent, to determine what type of testing is appropriate to answer the diagnostic questions. The diagnostic assessment could take up to 4 sessions, depending on the complexity of the presenting problems. The time commitment for the assessment varies based upon the type of assessment required. In general, a comprehensive assessment takes several hours; I will be able to give you an estimate of the time involved when we decide what type of assessment to perform.

Appointments: My normal practice is to conduct a consultation that will last 2-5 sessions. During this time we can decide whether I am the best person to provide services that you need in order to meet your goals. Once we agree to work together, I reserve a weekly appointment time/s specifically for you. Once a regular appointment time is reserved for you, you will be charged for any appointments that you miss altogether ("no shows") or that you cancel with less than 24 hours notice. Missed appointments will be charged at your full fee. Please note that insurance will not reimburse you for missed appointments. Please provide as much notice as possible regarding sessions that you will need to miss; in such instances, we will try to reschedule your appointment, as our schedules allow.

Couples, please note that my approach to couple therapy necessitates that both members of the couple attend every session. If only one member of a couple shows up for an appointment, I will not meet with him or her individually. Therefore, if one of you does not show up for any appointment, it will be considered a missed appointment, and you will be charged accordingly.

Professional Fees, Billing, and Payment

Fees for psychological evaluations, therapy sessions and assessments vary based upon the diagnostic question and session time.

Child, Adolescent, and Family: Each 45-minute evaluation and therapy session is $200/session.

Individual adults and couples: Each 45-minute evaluation and therapy session is $200/session.

Psychological Assessment: At the end of the diagnostic assessment, I will be able to offer you a first impression of what the psychoeducational assessment will include and the cost of this assessment. My fees are $200/hour for testing, scoring, report writing, and feedback. If, in the course of the assessment, my findings indicate that further evaluation would be useful, I will discuss these findings with you and inform you of any additional costs. You will then have the option of approving further assessment if you desire. Included in the cost of any assessment are completion of diagnostic procedures agreed upon, verbal feedback of findings and a written report of assessment results. In addition to the services included in the evaluation, related services including attendance at school meetings and consultation to parents, schools or therapists, are available at a separate hourly rate of $200/hour.

Other Professional Services: In addition to weekly appointments, it is my practice to charge $200/hour on a prorated basis for other professional services you may require, such as report writing, telephone conversations that last longer than 10 minutes, consultations with other professionals that you have authorized and requested, preparation of records or treatment summaries, or the time required to perform other services that may arise in the context of your treatment. If you become involved in litigation that requires my participation, you will be responsible for paying the professional time required. Because of the complexity and difficulty of legal involvement, I charge $350.00 per hour for the preparation for and attendance of any legal proceeding.

Insurance: I am not a provider for insurance plans. It is your responsibility to determine what your benefits are, any requirements for pre-authorization for services, and co-payments that are required. If your insurance will not cover my services because I am not on their panel, you may choose to pay for sessions yourself, or to see another therapist who is on their panel. I can assist in finding you a provider who is on your panel. I will also provide you with any assistance I can in facilitating your receipt of the insurance benefits to which you are entitled. However, you, and not your insurance company, are responsible for full payment of the fee. Therefore, it is very important that you find out exactly which mental health services your insurance policy covers.

You will be expected to pay for all services at each appointment unless other arrangements have been made with me in advance. Payment for additional testing or services, if we agree that they are beneficial, will be expected at the time these services are provided. Payment may be in the form of cash, bank check or personal check. There is a $25.00 additional charge for checks that are returned by the bank for any reason.

Accounts more than 30 days overdue will accrue interest charges at a rate of 1.5% per month. If your account has not been paid within 60 days and arrangements for payment have not been agreed upon, I have the option of using legal means to secure payment. This may involve hiring a collection agency or going through small claims court. If such legal action is necessary, its costs will be included in the claim. In most collections situations, the only information I release regarding your assessment is your name, the nature of the service and the amount due.

Contacting Me

I am often not immediately available by telephone. I do, however, have voice mail, which I monitor frequently. I will make every effort to return your call on the same day you make it, if you call before 5 p.m., or within 24 hours, with the exception of weekends and holidays. If you are difficult to reach, please inform me of times when you will be available and always leave a call-back number. If you feel you cannot reach me, and you feel that you cannot wait for me to return your call, you should call 911, or proceed immediately to the nearest emergency room. If I am unavailable for an extended period of time (i.e., a vacation), I will provide you with the name of a trusted licensed colleague whom you may contact if necessary.

Confidentiality

In general, the privacy of all communication between a patient and psychologist, including test data, is protected by law, and I can only release information about treatment notes and assessment results with your written permission. You should be aware that anything that is said in the course of an evaluation, therapy, and assessment that is relevant to the diagnostic question and treatment goals can be included in your treatment records and written report generated at the end of the assessment. The assessment report will only be sent to you, however, unless you provide me with written authorization to send it to another party such as a school, therapist or pediatrician. There are, however, a few exceptions.

There are some situations where I am legally obligated to take action to protect others from harm, even if I have to reveal some information about your evaluation, therapy, and/or assessment. For example, if I believe that a child, elderly or disabled person is being abused, I must file a report with the appropriate state agency.

If I believe that a patient is threatening serious bodily harm to another, I am required to take protective actions. These actions may include notifying the potential victim, contacting the police, or seeking hospitalization for the patient. If the patient threatens bodily harm to her/himself, I may be obligated to seek hospitalization for her/him or to contact family members or others who can help provide protection.

I may also find it helpful to consult with other professionals about clients I am currently treating. During a consultation, I make every effort to avoid revealing your identity. The consultant is legally bound to keep all information confidential. If you don't object, I will not tell you about these consultations unless I feel that it is important to our work together.

While this written summary of exceptions to confidentiality should prove helpful in informing you about potential problems, it is important that we discuss any questions or concerns that you have during our meeting. I will be happy to discuss these issues with you, but formal legal advice may be needed because the laws governing confidentiality are quite complex and I am not an attorney.
